Red alert in coastal, parts of north-interior Karnataka

Heavy rain throws life out of gear in some areas

KARNATAKA BUREAU
BENGALURU/HUBBALLI

While rain lashed parts of north and coastal Karnataka on Wednesday and threw life out of gear, people of the region will have to brace for more showers as the India Meteorological Department (IMD) has sounded a red alert for Thursday.

The forecast from the IMD has said that Dakshina Kannada, Udupi, and Uttara Kannada will receive extremely heavy rainfall on Thursday. A red alert has also been given for Bagalkot, Belagavi, and Vijayapura.

Parts of north-interior Karnataka and south-interior Karnataka have also been given an orange alert (very heavy rainfall).

On Wednesday, the districts of Kalyana Karnataka,

Rain that lashed Kalaburagi district through Tuesday night flooded major roads in the city. •ARUN KULKARNI including Kalaburagi, Yadgir, and Raichur, witnessed heavy rains from Tuesday night to Wednesday morning, disrupting normal life.

Inundation kept residents of several residential localities across the district awake at night. Overflowing rivers, rivulets, tributaries, and streams have cut connectivity between several villages and towns. Many of the bridges across the Kagina, including those near Malkhed, Kachur, and Dandoti, were submerged, cutting key connectivity, including between Kalaburagi and Hyderabad.

In Yadgir and Raichur districts there are reports of rainwater entering around 200 houses.

Woman gives birth in school

STAFF REPORTER
KALABURAGI

A 22-year-old woman, who was taking shelter from rain in a government school, was delivered of a baby girl there at Nagaidlai village of Chincholaluk in Kalaburagi district on Wednesday.

The woman, Geeta Venkat Helavar, and other villagers had moved in to the school building after heavy rain lashed their village.

Just as she reached the building, villagers said that Ms. Helavar developed labour pains and her great grandmother Nagamma, said to be 100 years old, took the initiative and delivered her of the baby. Both
