NEW DELHI, DHNS: Family of a government employee who died before completing seven years of service will get pension at the rate of 50% of last pay drawn for a period of 10 years from now on.

So far, families of such employees were getting 30% of the last pay drawn while the families of those who died after serving the government for more than seven years were getting 50% as pension for the first ten years. After ten years, the rate will be 30%. The government has made amendments to the Central Civil Services (Pension) Rules, 1972 and it will be effective from October 1. Families of government servants who died before the completion of service of seven years within 10 years before October 1, 2019, will also be eligible for family pension at enhanced rates
